Stanley talks about his recent discussion with one of the people who runs the Sister 2 Sister program in which businesswomen mentor young women who are having trouble staying at school. He reports the funding for this program has run out and the operators are waiting to hear from the Federal Govt if the funding is going to be renewed. Stanley says he contacted Deputy Prime Minister Julia Gillard's office, and was surprised at their lack of awareness over this situation. He maintains if they do not know about this, then that is a major problem. Stanley says there will be 'hell to pay' if the Govt does not renew that funding.
